

Katey Sagal gained national attention for her role as the outrageous 'Peg Bundy' in the ground-breaking, highly-rated long-running series "Married with Children," for which she earned three Golden Globe® and two American Comedy Award nominations.

Most recently, Katey starred in the ABC series "8 Simple Rules..." and as the voice of Leela, a beautiful one-eyed alien, in the animated series "Futurama."

In addition to her acting, Katey is a critically acclaimed singer and songwriter. She was a 'Harlette' with Bette Midler for five years as well as a background singer for Bob Dylan, Olivia Newton-John, Etta James and Tanya Tucker.

With the support of record label Valley Entertainment, she released her album, "Room," in 2004. "Room" is the first record for Sagal since her 1994 debut, "Well." "Room" is a combination of original songs penned by Katey including "Life Goes Round", "Daddy's Girl" and "Wish I Were a Kid". "Room" was produced by Bob Thiele (Bonnie Raitt) and mixed by Ray Kennedy (Twangtrust/Steve Earle). Ivan Neville, Don Was and Shane Fontayne make appearances throughout the disc.

Recent appearances include Catalina Bar and Grill and a successful run at the famous Plush Room in San Francisco. This spring she will return to San Francisco for 4 days at the Rrazz Room at the Hotel Nikko.

Katey will soon be seen in upcoming episodes of the new ABC hit series, "Eli Stone" and is currently shooting a pilot for FX, called "Sons of Anarchy". Additional television credits include 'Helen' in "Lost" and 'Nancy Gilroy' on "The Shield".

Feature film credits include "The Good Mother", "Made to Order", "Love Stinks" and "I'm Reed Fish".

Katey currently resides in Los Angeles, California with her fabulous husband, Kurt Sutter, who counts executive producer and writer of "The Shield" among his many credits, her three amazing children, Sarah, Jackson, and Esmé and two great dogs, Mike and the lovely Lola.
